No, I am not talking about the re-issue of one of the most famous documentaries in history, but the PBS documentary on climate change, given a name change. Let us all be open to the idea of space exploration, but as we have seen, science has always been objective, and that's where its strength lies. The fact that the most powerful engine of change we have ever faced in this so-called "New Age" is called "global climate change" is a sign of how primitive our scientific and even philosophical processes are. The IPCC reports show that our Earth is now 4 degrees warmer on average than it was 1,000 years ago, the extents of the permafrost have melted in parts of the Arctic, Greenland and the Antarctic,
